THE DENVER WARRING PACTIONS.

Governor Waite of Colorado removed t vo members of the Denver Police and Fire Board for alleged malfeasance of office. Among the specific charges against the Board were protecting gambling and disreputable houses from prosecution for violating the laws. He appointed two new members of the Board, one a Republican and the other a Populist, and ordered the old members to vacate their offices. This they refused to do. The Mayor! o? Had the Courts decided the Governor's action to be legal, then he would be justified in resorting to force to remove the Commissioners. There is, however, according to report, a political ring in Denver which will resort to any means to maintain its hold on the city government. The removal of two of the Police Commissioners would weaken its grasp, hence the refusal to turn over the offices to the Governor or submit the matter to the Supreme Court until life and property were endangered.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Heavy Rains Prodicted-Long Range Forecasts-Many of Them Verified. Copyrighted 1894 by W.T. Foster,

ST JOSEPH, Mo., March 16 .- My last bulletin gave forecasts of the stony wave to cross the continent from March 18th to 22d and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about the 23d, cross the western mountains by close of the 24th, the great central valleys from 25th to 27th and the Eastern States about the 28th.

This disturbance will be of more than usual force and will cause heavy rains in some parts of the country. The warm wave will cross the western central valleys about the 25th and the Eastern States about the 27th. The cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 26th, the great central valleys about the 28th and the Eastern States about the 30th. LONG BANGE FORECASTS.

A perfect system of long range weather forecasts is much to be desired, No preparation so rapidly and eventually will be reached. There is not another attainable object that will add to the general comfort and Mothers the world over rely welfare of the human race. To know with certainty the future rainfall, temperature and dangerous storms of flood and wind would revolutionize all the industries of the world and abolish half its miseries. We are certainly progressing toward these grand and ever to be desired results. Probably the greatest success yet attained in these weather bulletins is in the forecasts of warm waves and cool waves. Hundreds of letters from manufacturers, merchants, shippers, farmers, etc., in all parts of the United States attest the great advantage to them in Ed Asher came up from Wadsworth the information contained in these bulletins as to the changes from cool to warm and warm to cool, and all will testify that 90 per cent. of the forecasts in reference to these changes are verified. Leaving out all the other forecasts, their accuracy in this respect is well worth all that is claimed for the long range forecasts. At least 75 per A. Livingston of Carson returned cent. of the cold wave forecasts are from the Midwinter Fair yesterday verified. The most severe storm, cold wave and blizzard of the past winter The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. | were foretold in bulletin of January 27th, in which the location and general details were given more than two weeks

Another feature of very great importance is to know when the cold and warm winters will come. This has been a great puzzle, a deep hidden secret of nature, apparently past finding out. In this the long range forecasts have met with some reverses, but recent goods and trimming materials that discoveries explain the past of cold and warm winters and greater accuracy J. R. A New York tailor struck up an acquaintance with a local politician, and they became constant companions. The politician may be called Jones, and his nickname is Bud, which stands for Benjamin. As Bud the tailor met him, and as Bud he has always known him. One evening the tailor and his friend were in an up town cafe, chatting and drinking, while another man kept a sharp eye on them. Finally the two friends parted, and then the third man hastily approached the tailor. "Well," he said, did you get anything out of him?" The tailor did not see the point. "Did you not say anything to him about making a payment?" said the other. "What are you talking about?" answered the tailor. "That's my friend, Bud Jones." 'That may be, but he's Benjamin Jones, who owes you $240. I've been trying to find him for three weeks to collect it. 'The dickens!" said the tailor, "I didn't know that. Guess you'd better not try to collect that bill just yet."-New York Tribune.

Malice and Superstition.

In the middle ages malice and superstition found expression in the formation of wax images of hated persons, into the bodies of which long pins were stuck. It was confidently believed that in that way deadly injury would be done to the person represented. This belief and practice continued down to the seventeenth century. The superstition indeed still holds its place in the highlands of Scotland, "where," says a well informed writer, "within the last few years a clay model of an enemy was found in a stream, having been placed there in the belief that as the clay washed away so would the health of the hated one decline."-Nev

Plaster Casts.

My advice to those who contemplate having a plaster cast taken of their heads and faces is don't. Two friends of mine, amateur sculptors, persuaded me to let them take a cast of my face, so as to reproduce and immortalize my 5 features. I had no idea what the proceas was, and though I objected to it on general grounds did not imagine that any torture was connected with it.

Judge of my horror, then, when found that my nostrils had to be stuffed with cotton wool and that a nasty, sticky substance was pressed tightly all over my face so as to secure an impression of my features. Nothing so utterly un-comfortable could be imagined, and the specially mritating was almost irresistible. But the greatest agony was to come. The young men had forgotten in their hurry some precautions which it is usual to take in order to make it easy to break the cast in the center and ake it off in two pieces.

Hence it failed to respond to their efforts to racke it split, and I had to wait until they could break it off in sections. The heat in the interval was oppressive in the extreme, and as they pulled off large pieces of flesh and enough hair to make a small wig my safferings can easily be imagined. If I ever ob'am fame, which I do not antion, f. my features will have to be lamortalized in some way other than in means of a bust."—St. Louis Globe-A "Run-Down"
